However, it is now recognized that an assignment from Ab Initio Software Corporation to an entirely different entity was executed on July 14, 2008, two days prior to the corporate conversion. Accordingly, the Certificate of Conversion was improperly recorded as it relates to the identified trademarks.

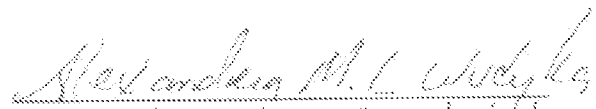

Ab Initio Software LLC acknowledges (1) that the filing of the Certificate of Conversion for the identified registrations was in error, (2) that it has neither current nor previous ownership interest in the identified registrations, and (3) that the chain of title for the identified registrations should not be considered altered by the incorrect recordation of the Certificate of Conversion. Ownership of the identified registrations should reflect the information below so that the assignment document to the proper owner may be filed and recorded:
