

We want to be the first place you go for information about CBD and Cannabis.

Whether you're looking to find the perfect CBD product, seeking information about growing your own legal cannabis, reading about the different cannabis strains, or wanting to read the latest medical cannabis research, FullSpectrum.com will have you covered. We gather experts from all corners of the industry: medical doctors, journalists, grow experts, and more.

Our hope is that FullSpectrum.com becomes the first and only place you'll visit to stay up to date on all things cannabis.

You can subscribe here to never miss a post (we'll only email you good stuff, and will never sell your info):

Meet the FullSpectrum.com Team

Sean Markey | Publisher

Sean Markey lives in the high desert among tumbleweeds and sage brush. He holds a B.A. in Education, and is passionate about the promise of relief medical cannabis can bring when fully legalized. He started FullSpectrum.com as a way to educate readers on the science-backed benefits of cannabis and hemp can bring to millions of Americans. By creating a trusted resource that brings together the latest medical marijuana policy changes, the latest medical cannabis research, and helping to educate readers by answering commonly-asked questions, he hopes to reduce the negative stigma around the cannabis industry and help people discover the amazing benefits of this miracle plant.
