The 2019 CEO GameChanger Conference (formerly known as the CEO Summit) promises to be the catalyst for equipping organizations with disruptive strategies to advance Black leaders. This is the start of a transformational effort to engage CEOs in practical dialogue about truly moving the needle in advancing Black leaders.

The CEO GameChanger Conference will be held on October 10, 2019 from 10:00 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. during The ELC's Gala Week activities at the Marriott Marquis in Washington, D.C., which also includes our Honors Symposium and Mid-Level Managers' Symposium. PwC returns as our lead corporate sponsor for this event and we greatly appreciate their support.

While progress has been made, businesses have not been able to achieve racial equality at the C-Suite and board levels. The ELC believes that every CEO understands the power and promise of building a workforce, from top to bottom, that mirrors the face of the communities and customers they serve. What has become apparent is that current approaches are not producing the desired outcomes. We are challenging each company to make intentional and substantive progress in this domain. We will be relentless in marking 2019 as a watershed moment that changes the game for Black economic empowerment, Black executives and Black corporate board representation. Furthermore, if we are successful, this will translate to positive impact in Black communities throughout our country.
