Whether you're a board member, community manager, or HOA management company director, you face daily problems that impact communities and homeowners. From staffing to budgeting, the decisions you make can have a lasting impact on a community's effectiveness and reputation. At Boardline Academy, you'll be getting your training from a team made up of former community association managers, learning management system experts, attorneys, an English professor, and video production by staff who trained at leading film schools. The Boardline team has already trained hundreds of association managers and thousands of board members who had varying degrees of experience. Our materials have received the stamp of approval from certain municipalities, management companies, and association boards.

Boardline Academy is here to help make your job easier. By providing board members with professional-level training courses, we empower them to make informed decisions, improve their board procedures, run effective meetings, better manage association funds, and more. Plus, Boardline's easy-to-use, well-designed interface makes training a breeze.

Increase efficiency, awareness, and credibility. Decrease misunderstandings, mistakes, and unwelcome surprises.

It's as simple as that.
