

"WAS MAKE REAL ESTATE REAL, ANY GOOD?"

This weekend has done more than I could ever place in words. If absolutely nothing physical or financial comes from it, it has truly changed the trajectory of our lineage. It has increased hope and a changed mindset.

Alfred and I are best friends and life partners but he is the risk taker not me. However our purpose and vision is aligned and I am so excited for the future of our lineage.

Because you were obedient, children for generations will eat, not the scraps or leftovers but from the Kings table. For us, the destiny is in the discipline not the dollars.

Because I have never focused on the dollar but the heart of people, I believe that God has blessed me tremendously in the areas that are important to me.

Your transparency, kindness and humility is not only appreciated but create a trust that frankly I have never extended to anyone outside of my village. We are so grateful for your sacrifice of time and energy and for trusting us with your blueprint.

OMG, thank you so much for this weekend. I just got off the phone with Sam and we are SO ready to make this happen for us AND so we can be the Jemal in the lives of all our loved ones. We're truly touched by who you are for others because that's in our spirit as well. I just feel like we were meant to be in each other's lives.

It has been a long journey finding the right property but your words kept me motivated. This is the first of many to come! Creating a legacy and I am making real estate real!

The weekend was so good. I'm in Japan now. And looking at places here and thinking of the possibilities.

How often are you doing the events?

My wife told me we should just take care of ourselves first. Told her small goals is what have been doing. Time to plan way past those old goals.

You have a gift for speaking (challenging, motivating, storytelling for emphasis and inspiration, and sharing knowledge). God is and will use it to change the lives of many people that are struggling financially. That's exciting!!

I'm looking for to the fb group!

You have no clue who I am but I just wanted to say thanks for sharing your story on episode 105 of the secret to success podcast. I've been
