

The BLOCK

Speaks for itself....

~ Customer Comments ~

Over a period of about 5 years, my husband and I surrounded our little horse farm with 2000 feet of Country Estate fence, provided by Acreage Fences. We did the work ourselves and set over 250 posts by hand. The part we prided ourselves in most was getting each one the exact height necessary to form a perfect fence line. This, of course, involved some pounding of posts into the ground, inspecting, and pounding some more. My husband yielded the sledge hammer, and it was my job to hold a piece of wood on top of the post in order to distribute the impact uniformly and not damage the post. We tried everything from 2x4's to 2x8s, 2x12s and chunks of things, all of which broke, flew apart, or splintered. At one point, one of the board slipped and two of my fingers served the purpose. I nearly lost one of them in the accident. Our project got put on hold when I retired as board cap holder. The invention of "The Block" is definitely the best tool devised since the PVC fence itself. It makes planting posts so much easier, and is a safety tool of inestimable worth! My fingers are fine, our fence is complete, and who knows "The Block" may have saved our marriage!

The Block is so much better than the wood 2x4's we used previously to align our posts. It's always in our installation trucks and used on our jobs.

The tool for driving down posts those last few inches to get your final post alignment and flow.

Hands free, no more using that wood 2 x 4, that splits and stings your hands.

Fits 3.5, 4, and 5 inch vinyl posts

Made of durable material that holds up against your sledge hammer.
