Retailers Use Logistics EDI Transactions to Reduce Shipping Costs

SPS Commerce's Scott Bolduc shares how an increasing number of retailers are taking control of their shipping costs by managing their freight routing, a function traditionally performed by their vendors. Retailers are using the latest logistics EDI transactions, namely the EDI 753 and EDI 754 transactions, with their in-house Transportation Management System (TMS) or with their 3PL to build loads more efficiently to their distribution centers and/or stores and lowering their shipping costs. During this podcast, Mr. Bolduc discusses this trend in the retail supply chain and gives examples of retailers using the logistics EDI transactions leveraging an on-demand EDI service with their suppliers and 3PLs.
