MARINE DETAILING

The proper cleaning and care of marine vehicles takes more than just basic auto detailing knowledge. On The Spot, with years of experience detailing watercraft, has spent the time to find the right supplies and procedures to make your marine detail as thorough as possible. First time watercraft owners often make the mistake of not performing the proper preventative maintenance that is required. When this care is absent, it greatly increases aging and depreciates the value of your treasured investment. Don't let this happen to you! The hull's gel-coat will be restored and the bright-work will shine. From yachts to sailboats to jet-skis we have the know-how to take care of them all, inside and out.

Testimonials

I was initially nervous about getting my Forester detailed as I hadn't had it cleaned out since I had purchased it three years ago.

So I was somewhat uneasy about what they might 'find', especially considering that I spend more than three hours a day, six days a week in it doing everything from slurping coffee to breakfast and frequently spilling those things as well.

Not only did they clean out the standard areas of the vehicle, all the crevices and comers were completely cleared of the "unknown and foreign debris" that was there when I exited the vehicle. The upholstery was clean and dry and spots that were present earlier were no longer there. The exterior was spotless and where I thought I had scratches to the paint, they were no longer visible.

Overall, On the Spot Detail did a fabulous job.

Although I chose to wait on my vehicle while it was being washed, cleaned and detailed, the staff did not do a 'rush' job.

It was clear they took their time to attend to even the smallest of details.

They even took the extra time to clean off all the dog hair that was on the roof of my car (a gift left behind from my daughter's 200 lb Great Dane).

I had not even noticed this dog hair as I rarely look up while driving!
Great Job Guys!

I run a daycare, have a family, and am going to school in the evenings, so I definitely have little time to worry about
