Product Description

EMERGENCY FIRESTARTERS

FIRESTARTER FEATURES

2 FIRESTARTERS PER PACKAGE

LASTS UP TO 16,000 STRIKES

BURNS AT 3,000C (5,500F)

BUILT-IN COMPASS

BUILT-IN EMERGENCY WHISTLE

WIND/WATER/COLD RESISTANCE

BETTER THAN FLINT

Don't be left without a fire. Our Magnesium Ferrocerium rod is more dependable and effective than flint firestarters, matches, and butane lighters. Burns at up to 5,500°F for starting fires in even the most adverse conditions. Small compact size and heavy duty military paracord allows you to wear around your neck, tie to hiking gear or fit into your pocket.

HOW TO USE FIRESTARTERS TO START A FIRE

Step 1

Gather some kindling (such as dry grass, pine needles, small twigs) and some tinder (such as small branches, pine cones, bark).

Step 2

Use serrated edge of striker to shave some magnesium from the rod onto your pile of tinder. Keep shavings closely piled together for best results.

Step 3

Use smooth edge of striker to forcefully strike rod several times in order to release a stream of sparks aimed at the magnesium pile until it ignites.

Step 4

Gently blow on the flame and start feeding it with kindling and larger branches until you have a full-fledged fire.

★★★★★ Extremely pleased

Color: Black Verified Purchase

What a great buy. Good price on a nice pair of relatively larger-sized ferrocium rods. Just got boxyesterday and tested one out. Your first couple strikes will remove the coating and then they'll spark right up, just like they're supposed to. The handle feels solid, the whistle is loud and the tiny little button compass actually works very well (for a tiny little button compass). Obviously you can't do orienting with it but if you were lost and you knew the road was SW of your location, the compass on these (at least the two I received) would do just fine.

Surprised it really works! I have been practicing with my fire starter, I have to say how easy it is to start a fire. Even my grandkids have learned to use the fire starter. I also found out it can last for years to come. B

★★★★★ Awesome wilderness hiker's tool!

July 7, 2018

Color: Black Verified Purchase

This is probably the perfect manual firestarter. The old school magnesium firestarter used to be sold in a 1" x 2" x 0.25" slab of magnesium with a flint stick glued in a groove along one edge. They came without a scraper or sparking tool, requiring us to ruin many pocket knives while backpacking. This one represents what happens when you improve an old concept and eliminate issues with the old style. It's made with a high strength polymer. The whistle has dual cores for generating plenty of volume. The 550 parachute cord is standardized and the rod is shipped with a corrosion Protestant type coating. The big deal here is the convenience of having a small tool attached to the 550 lanyard. The scraper is essentially a chunk of hacksaw blade. The sharp teeth on the blade work great for removing magnesium shavings and the way the device is configured it sends sparks in precisely the right direction. I am able to make shavings and spark enough of them in about twenty seconds to get my fire going. Highly recommended product to keep handy, and priced well enough to stash one in every vehicle, go bag, ruck, or RV you have.

★★★★★ so there is a good deal of sparks to throw for a long while

August 27, 2017

Color: Black Verified Purchase

As described. The rods are actually quite large and thick, so there is a good deal of sparks to throw for a long while. The compass works, and the whistle does work, even though takes a bit of trying different methods to get it to whistle. I've bought other rods in the past and this one I definitely recommend over the bear grillis ones or the cheaper "survival ones" this one seems pretty robust and quality made. I definitely would recommend.

★★★★★ both are of a good size which should allow for plenty of strikes

July 27, 2018

Color: Black Verified Purchase

These aren't my first fire starters and I must say that the fact that these are multi purpose made me wonder if the compass, and whistle would truly be of any use. Once I received these, I noticed that the construction was more than adequate. The first thing I did was check to see if the button compasses functioned properly, as many of button compasses are completely worthless. Much to my surprise, both pointed north without even having to tap on them. Following this, I tried the whistles and just as with the compasses, they also functioned well. As far as the ferro rods go, both are of a good size which should allow for plenty of strikes. I would say that being able to pick up two of these for under $10.00 is a real steal.

I would highly recommend these.

★★★★★ A good buy

July 29, 2018

Color: Black Verified Purchase

I think these fire starters are a really good deal. Compared to others on the market, these are very competitively priced. The whistles might be improved somewhat, but the compasses on my fire starters are consistently reliable (if you separate them from the iron striker and make sure they are level--like any other button compass). I've ordered another pair of these fire starters....

★★★★★ Good product as advertised...

June 17, 2018

Color: Black Verified Purchase

These worked quite well and was slightly worried they would not perform as advertised, but I took the chance anyways! After a few scrapes of removing the black coating, the sparks were very obvious and large.

I could care less about the compass and whistle, although they both worked; I have a keen sense of direction and I can whistle quite well on my own.

I'd strongly recommend this product, plus you get the bonus items for such a bargain of a deal!

★★★★☆ more like just a fire starter

August 25, 2018

Color: Black Verified Purchase

Not really sure what the 5 'tools' are suppose to be. I did receive 2 of them but on both the whistles did not work and the compasses had an air bubble which prevent them from working as intended. So already these functions are a let down. Now the main body of this, the fire steel, produced ample sparks. There is enough range on cord (not sure if it is genuine paracord) to use comfortably. The flat side of the scraper works much better than the serrated edge. Overall I view this as just a fire starter, the compass and whistle were both defective. The paracord and scraper are better off as part of the whole fire starter set-up vs being considered separate tools.
