Senior Living Community Addresses Unique Cultural, Health Needs of Native American Elders

The Prairie Island Indian Community, a federally recognized Mdewakanton Dakota Tribe, developed this elder assisted living lodge designed to serve members of the tribal community, as well as the City of Welch and the surrounding community at large. Ten of the twenty apartments at Tinta Wita Tipi are open to people from the community (non Native Americans). Ebenezer Management Services, which specializes in senior housing and care, staffs the community to meet the specific health needs of the Prairie Island Community's seniors and works in collaboration with tribal leaders to customize care offerings.

With this project, Tinta Wita Tipi wishes to celebrate its Dakota and community elders through honor, care and respect while encouraging family involvement. The beautifully designed single-story building is located on 18 acres of tribal land in Welch, MN and focuses on incorporating Dakota culture and community into the assisted living setting. Tinta Wita Tipi celebrates the city of Welch as well as the surrounding community at large.
