1984

PCI, founded and operated by Arturo Echarte, opened its doors in the fall of 1984. The company began handling outgoing Certified Mail, Parcels and Priority Overnight packages for clients' that could not meet their USPS pickup deadline.

1989

PCI began its "Commingling" mail services. Commingling, the process of combining multiple mail streams into one larger mail stream, gave clients the opportunity to save money by taking part of the USPS "Work Share" program.
