

Inside the Studio

Learn more about how we do what we do and why we are passionate about it.

CompoSecure was built on our commitment to our top priorities: security, innovation, durability.

Our founders' expertise in materials science, chemistry and new product development allowed CompoSecure to create a legacy of excellence, and today, our world-class research and development team continues our tradition of innovation. Our current team of engineers, designers and project managers develop technologies and processes that keep us on the leading edge to deliver secure, high-quality proprietary products to our customers worldwide.

and development team continues our tradition of innovation. Our current team of engineers, designers and project managers develop technologies and processes that keep us on the leading edge to deliver secure, high-quality proprietary products to our customers worldwide.

One constant in our decades-long history is taking on the seemingly impossible. Our customers - who we see as our partners - will never hear us say, "it can't be done." We thrive on challenges. This determination is reflected in our commitment to our core values.

Innovation

We adapt technology and machinery from various industries - including aerospace, automotive, jewelry and even fashion - to produce the most innovative products. When it comes to cards, we understand the complexities and challenges of creating ISO-compliant products. We enhance features by using unique materials and production processes while adhering closely to ISO specifications. Learn more about our technology.

materials and production processes while adhering closely to ISO specifications. Learn more about our technology.

Durability

Our team of mechanical and chemical engineers specialize in materials science and new product development. Our deep understanding of the card manufacturing process - from the molecular structure of polymers to the engineering and mechanics behind the equipment - ensures our partners' cards outlast and outshine the competition.

Security

In today's constantly shifting global landscape, we recognize the critical importance of developing cards and ID documents that are safe and secure. By incorporating security elements and unique composite materials during the manufacturing process, we build high-quality cards that help protect our partners' clients. Meeting the most stringent requirements, our security practices and composite materials during the manufacturing process, we build high-quality cards that help protect our partners' clients. Meeting the most stringent requirements, our security practices and standards are recognized as some of the most rigorous, earning certifications from card industry associations.

We provide customized creative and production services, combining art and science, transforming digital card images into unique products that help differentiate our partners' brands.

Every step of the way, we are committed to the highest level of quality both in the service we provide and the products we produce.

Let Us Design Your

In-house Design Sessions

We understand our partners can be under tight deadlines and final art may require many levels of approvals. Our sales and graphics teams provide in-house design consultations that allow our partners to bring their visions to life, creating designs they are proud to show key decision makers.

Card Design and Graphics

Our graphics team is well-versed in Adobe Illustrator and Photoshop. Understanding our partners' vision, our designers can transform card concepts into production ready files.

Prototyping

Our creative process includes the development of prototypes prior to initiating an actual production run. Our prototype team is comprised of experienced technicians who create these samples so that our clients can see, touch and feel their final product prior to launching in the market. Due to the fact that our products are tactile in nature and each design is unique, this is an important step. Our ultimate goal is to create the highest quality card that will elevate a brand's equity in the marketplace.

Stay in the know.

Get updates on product releases and all things CompoSecure.

Enter your email

SIGN UP