At Pinnacle, our training is always custom-built for your organization – so we've thought a lot about how best to gather information from participants before training commences. The result is a suite of remote assessment tools that provide simple and user-friendly interfaces for your people to express their group and individual needs around communication.

Diagnostic & Development Plans for program participants

Practice makes perfect! After attending one of our award-winning workshops, our master trainers can prepare individual Diagnostic & Development Plans that provide each participant with a totally personal learning journey to ensure that everyone can reach their full potential. Recommendations can include a range of video- and audio-based exercises that can be accessed through our Learning Portal.

Communication & Presence (CAP) Assessments for program managers

Great leaders are always great communicators. Discover the "A" players in your organization who have future leadership potential. The CAP Assessment is a detailed, confidential report for your eyes only. It analyzes and compares individuals across a range of measures including body language, vocal quality, executive presence, and engagement: the predictors of leadership and communication success.
