Our class actions software was developed in-house, and is continually enhanced by our technical specialists. It includes case management workflow capability to produce industry-leading claim submissions and bespoke client reports.

Goal offers a free of charge Proof of Concept to ascertain whether a prospective client’s portfolio is eligible to participate in class actions. We recently did this for a UK-based asset management firm, cross-checking their assets against our in-house database to identify any historical or current class action cases in which they could have participated – plus those where deadlines had recently passed.

It emerged that 23% of the portfolio’s assets were eligible for a class action lawsuit – amounting to recoveries of several million pounds.
