

Start your podcast.

From start to finish, we can handle the details.

1) Idea.

We'll have an initial, no pressure conversation about your podcast concept and let you know what we can do for you.

In short, we'll handle all the details so you can focus on what you do best.

We're also happy to assist with or create your podcast's release schedule, logo, social media content and ensure it's available on all major providers (Apple, Spotify, etc).

If you decide you want to work together further, we'll sign a basic contract and production agreement and starting making your idea reality.

2) Production.

Using the game plan we've developed, we'll record and produce sample content for you to review.

Once you approve, we'll begin to produce a fully mixed draft of a regular episode. When that is finalized, we'll develop the rest of the series or episodes as needed.

Depending on the project, the final step for the audio is mastering - this ensures the best possible listening experience across a variety of speakers.

After a detailed review of the final product, it's time to go live and share your new show.

3) Reality.

Whether it's a smaller project or more detailed production, it's time to celebrate.

There's nothing like the thrill of seeing your idea made real, to see those first few episodes appear on Apple Podcasts.

You will have access to real-time statistics and be able to monitor information like number of listens, time spent listening (TSL), average number of subscribers and most popular episodes.
