

Mid-Level Managers' Symposium

This annual Symposium (MLMS) is a two-day, professional-development experience for nearly 1,000 high-potential, high-performing corporate managers and leaders.

2020 Mid-Level Managers' Symposium (MLMS)

October 14-15, 2020

As a Black professional, you have already demonstrated your ability to survive and thrive, mentor and sponsor, and contribute to your organization's bottom line. The ELC can be your force multiplier and advocate. The goal of ELC's Mid-Level Managers Symposium (MLMS) is to amplify the successes of Black professionals and increase their capacity for designing meaningful careers. It is not "professional development"; it's "professional transformation" in an atmosphere where the Black experience is centered, essential and unapologetic.

As an MLMS attendee, you can expect to:

- Prime yourself for new levels of success-oriented thinking by attending keynote addresses from Black thought leaders
- Accelerate your progress towards your professional goals with battle-tested strategies and tactics presented in more than 15 concurrent sessions
- Avoid career derailers by integrating lessons learned from fireside chats with successful Black professionals
- Expand your professional network by connecting with other Black
