Update 1/24 - Still no drop down when calls are initiated and no call icon when a call goes through - until you minimize wire. After being on screensaver while on a call for a few hours, device care message pops up saying "some apps or processes are overloading the the system (CPU) and need to be ..."

When I [accidentally] go into the GIF screen is intuitively tap the back button, but this takes me out of my chat into chat list screen, and then when I try to return to the chat screen it still displays the frickin GIF screen. This is so annoying and counterintuitive, I can't get used to it! Please...
