

Training Courses

Current Railroad Professionals

Training Methods

Instructor Led

Training Courses

Mechanical Training

Transportation Training

Engineering Training

Signal/Telecom Training

Training by Request

Courses for Current Railroad Professional

Brought to life by highly qualified instructors with experience in the railroad industry, NARS’ wide range of course training experts with the training needs of current railroad professionals in mind. Many of these courses are presented in the classrooms and laboratories of our Johnson County Community College where trainees will work on mastering necessary job skills in environments that simulate real on-the-job conditions.

Mechanics keep the trains moving. Their job is critical and must be done correctly. Find out what kind of mechanical training NARS has to offer.

Locomotive engineers must draw on a variety of experience and skills to safely and efficiently handle a train. Find out what kind of training NARS has to offer.

Building, inspecting, maintaining and repairing the infrastructure of a railroad are critical skills that must be taught properly. more than 30 engineering courses cover.

Today’s railroads rely on the proper operation of signal and telecommunications technology. Learn about Signal and Telecom coursework.

Some courses are so specialized they are offered at various locations! Learn more about our Training by Request.

© 2019 National Academy of Railroad Sciences. All rights reserved.

Contact Us Privacy Policy