Let me introduce you to Monsieur Guillaume. French. Billionaire. Distinguished. For those of you who do not know, the French have brought us most of the finer things in line. Cognac, champagne, so why not cigars? The cigars in the Patisserie Line up are to be treated as desert. They are the Macaron of the cigar world. Each size is made in a different country and represents a flavor in the macaroon world. This is the brand motif. The brand also represents superiority and art. There is as much attention to detail in the blends as there is in the packaging. Guillaume, a long-time cigar smoker, excited by the new world of tobacco and the endless possibilities, scanned many factories in all 3 major cigar-producing countries. These are the finest what he calls universally delicious blends he has found to date.

The Dominican (Orange) will rival any Davidoff according to the founder, a long-time collector. The Honduran (Lemon) is one of the most sublime smoking experiences available and the Nicaraguan (Vanilla) is the absolute pairing for pastry and coffee. All tobaccos are natural, untreated, and produced with best practices.
