crafted for happy clients

the boho family

Boho has grown from a single van in a driveway, to a team of craftsmen purposely building each van as if it were their own.

Every van we build is unique and every client we work with becomes part of the boho family.

We are proud to show off our work below!

A high-angle photograph of a person sitting on the edge of a massive, layered rock formation. The person is wearing a dark jacket and a red hat, and is holding a camera. The rock formation is a mix of light tan and dark grey, showing clear horizontal strata. Below the cliff, a river flows through a deep canyon. The water is a deep blue, reflecting the sky. The canyon walls are rugged and show signs of erosion. The lighting is warm, suggesting late afternoon or early morning, with long shadows cast across the rock faces.
