EQUIPMENT RELOCATION

Relocation Done Right

Being able to serve our clients in any way possible is something we pride ourselves in at Bulk. Sometimes, equipment needs to be relocated due to new business needs or a change in production. We understand the importance of getting this done flawlessly and in a timely manner and have the experience and talent to get your lift equipment moved anywhere in the country.

End-to-End Service

From dismantling the equipment, to transporting it, to reinstalling it at the new site, you'll have access to a team of experts that will take care of your equipment through the entire relocation process.

Nationwide

No matter where your heavy equipment needs to land, Bulk has the ability to disassemble, securely load, transport, and erect it at its final destination.
