Processing Quality

Often taken for granted, high-quality processing is the foundation for everything that follows in the discovery process. Our time-tested and proven methods, built on industry-leading tools, infused with automation, and forged through processing petabytes of data, ensures the integrity and completeness of the data throughout the process. We make sure every identified exception is reviewed, cataloged, and addressed.

detailed reports explaining the rules and errors.

Review Quality

Emphasizing rule-driven review workflows brings consistency and formality within and across reviews.

We address the complexity of review with rules that evaluate a document in the context of the family, email thread, and duplicates. The result is precise quality control queues that allow attorneys to quickly identify and address issues.

Review Workflow Manager™

Form of Review categories identify very specific actions needed to complete review.

Production Inspector™

In our custom Relativity app, we link final export files to the workspace to verify each production artifact.

Production Quality

Months of effort by dozens, if not hundreds, of people, comes down to the production—mistakes, even simple ones, open the door to question everything.

We use Production Inspector, our proprietary Relativity application to automate final production QC. Our tool creates a streamlined view for checking everything from Bates numbers and page count summaries to complex items like privilege text and placeholder control.

Review Alignment Manager

The difficulty in training any review team is confirming that the training is accurate, complete, and that the team fully comprehends the material. Review Alignment Manager addresses each of these concerns through a simple training interface available to your team directly through the Relativity browser that provides accuracy statistics for each reviewer and document. By alerting your review manager to conflicts before they happen, document review teams receive a powerful boost in efficiency and accuracy.
