

Ball Girl: Don't Hate The Player, Learn The Game

Ball Girl #38: Can someone commission Jason Sudeikis to write a theme song for Luka Doncic

like the equivalent of the Roy Kent chant in Ted Lasso

BALL GIRL

Don't hate the player, learn the game

---

Why you ask? The man is dropping 30+ points every single game while acting like a golden retriever puppy.

---

Can I have your number?

- 13: Highest record of men's singles French Open titles, held by Rafael Nadal. Rafa will be back this year, looking to tack one on to his record.

<https://www.cbssports.com/tennis/news/rafael-nadal-wins-13th-french-open-title-ties-roger-federer-with-20th-grand-slam/>

---

NBA

Round 2 of the NBA Playoffs concluded. To help my non-NBA fans out there understand the gravity of this situation, this is equivalent Home Town Visits on The Bachelor.

Eastern Conference Finals: #1 Miami Heat vs. #2 Boston Celtics

- Why you may want to root for Miami: The Miami Heat have chance to win their first title since 2013, led by Texan-native Jimmy Butler. Butler was tossed around from team to team, unable to find his place (the man's got a bigger mouth on him than Matt Damon in every Boston movie). That is, until he landed in Miami where his 'quirks' and MF filled vocabulary were embraced. Since then, he's been EXCEEDING expectations at veteran age of 32. Is this Miami's year, and more specifically, is it Jimmy's?

- Why you may want to root for the Boston: We love to hate 'em, especially when they just beat the Milwaukee Bucks and the sweetheart of the NBA Giannis. but we gotta admit. Boston pushes out effective sports team more than Kris Jenner pushes out revenue generating children. What's so appealing about this Boston team in particular is they have not 1, not 2, but 3 STARS (all of whom comfortably share the spotlight....for now). Peep Jayson Tatum, Jaylen Brown, and Marcus Smart.

The quirkiness of the one and only Jimmy Butler:

Western Conference Finals: #1 Phoenix Suns/ #4 Dallas Mavericks vs. #3 Golden State Warriors :

- Why you may want to root for the Dallas: Luka Doncic is the problem child of the NBA and by that I mean, he causes PROBLEMS for other teams. He pulled the upset off the century against the Phoenix Suns (who entered the playoffs as the #1 seed overall) and may I remind you he's only 23 years old!?!? I never thought I'd date a younger man but if that man is Luka....I'll rob that cradle, baby blanket, pacifier and all.

- Why you may want to root for the Golden State: Steph Curry and Klay Thompson have a connection deeper than my Dad with the dog he didn't want. When they are both on their game, they are unstoppable. Steph Curry may be known for making 3s but I think it's time we start admitting how this man and his wifey Ayesha also make BEAUTIFUL children.