

Supporting Long-Term Customer Relationships

When you work with PPM, you're tapping into a wealth of technical and practical knowledge, as well as building a dependable, long-term relationship. We're here to help you solve the many challenges you face in processing the wide variety of products demanded by today's consumer. We've amassed decades of expertise in all areas of processing, seasoning and handling, and we continue to support you and your products long after the sale.

Besides supporting and servicing our own PPM machinery, we also sell, support and service these respected brands:

Allen Machinery Inc., with thousands of products in the field producing fresh, frozen and processed products throughout North, Central and South America, as well as Asia and Europe.

Wright Machinery UK in London has provided conveying and seasoning systems for the snack industry throughout Europe, and executed global rollouts for major snack food manufacturers.

Aseeco is a strong brand name in the food industry. PPM produces new equipment of the same design and supports parts and service for existing and new installations.
