success

Whether plasma, waterjet, or the software and services that enable connected factories and optimized performance, we provide solutions to help customers meet their business objectives.

WHAT WE DO

These names and more represent the world's leading industrial cutting products and software, and they all originate with one company: Hypertherm Associates.

“Hypertherm Associates reinforces our focus on people, from our customers, partners, and surrounding communities to our Associates, who own the company. It cements our long-term commitment and focus on customer-focused technology innovation and partnership, and to our communities, rather than external shareholders or investors.”

Evan Smith, President and CEO of Hypertherm Associates
