Why Colloidal Gold Skin Care is Beneficial for Your Skin?

Written by: Felix Liu.

What Is Colloidal Gold?

Colloidal gold is water that contains gold nanoparticles of different sizes in it. These sizes range from 1 to 100 nanometers. The shape and size of the nanoparticles play an important part in colloidal gold because those are the elements that define the properties and applications of the product.

Why Is Peptide with Colloidal Gold an effective Anti-wrinkle Ingredient Booster?

“ high bioactivity of collagen synthesis ”

Acetyl Heptapeptide – 9 – Colloidal Gold™ is an anti wrinkle active ingredient based on collagen booster peptides. It provides a high concentration of collagen available at the membrane receptors, high bioactivity of collagen synthesis and improvement for maintaining the appearance of youthful, healthy skin.

Over the past few years, it's been proved that colloidal gold comes with a myriad of beneficial properties that can help women achieve a firm and younger-looking skin. Experts in the skincare and beauty industry use and recommend colloidal gold also as an anti-inflammatory and to treat diverse skin wounds.

Thanks to its versatility, it has increased its popularity and quickly become one of the favorite and most popular skincare products of the moment.

How Can Colloidal Gold Benefit Your Skin?

The gold nanoparticles that make up the colloidal gold are so small that they can penetrate the skin to a deeper level than other ingredients. Whenever you apply colloidal gold to your skin along with other skincare products, the nanoparticles can lead these other active ingredients to a more profound level of the skin. Thus, increasing the efficacy and benefits of any other skincare product.

Moreover, the use of colloidal gold in the medical field has increased noticeably as well. Studies prove that colloidal gold has the power to regenerate and repair damaged cells. For this reason, doctors and scientists use it to complement cancer treatments and to help all sorts of wounds heal quicker. Similarly, the beauty industry takes advantage of these properties and uses colloidal gold to regenerate skin cells and make people look young and fresh.
