Mountain bikes are perfect for riding off-road, but they can also be used on paved surfaces. Before you buy a bike, think about what you need are. If you're looking for a first bike, or a bike for beginners, then an entry-level mountain bike is perfect. If you're looking to upgrade your current ride, then you'll need to take a closer look at the features of the bikes available. There are many different types of mountain bikes to choose from, so it's important to do your research before buying one!
