SUMMARY

Our multipurpose professional-weight pan handles a variety of needs, from baking large batches of cookies to sheet cakes. Made from heavy-gauge aluminum-coated steel, the pan heats quickly and evenly to ensure uniform baking.

- Versatile pan suits countless baking tasks.
- Commercial-grade aluminized steel distributes heat quickly and evenly for consistent baking results.
- Coated wire reinforcement along the rim maximizes durability and resistance to rust and warping.
- Unique diamond-textured surface strengthens sheet pan while increasing airflow for even baking.
- Pan is uncoated; for best results, grease pan or line with parchment paper or silicone mat.
- Made exclusively for Williams Sonoma.

I see several reviews about a black coating coming off of the pan. Can you tell me what that is? Thanks!

answer

Answer this Question

Williams Sonoma · a year ago

Hi BakingMom,

The Traditionaltouch aluminized pans do not have a nonstick coating. Black or gray marks are a natural byproduct of the oxidation of aluminum. These pans may turn black if the heat is turned up too high or not heating evenly.

I want to use this pan with a silpat sheet to bake soft pretzels that I will be coating with food grade lye. My question is will the lye damage the silpat or the pan?

Answer this Question

Hi Migman,

This pan is aluminized steel and can be damaged if any of the food grade lye touches the pan. We suggest a stainless-steel pan without any type of coating. The food grade lye can cause permanent indentations in the silicone mats. We suggest using Parchment paper over a stainless-steel pan.

What is the inside dimension of this half sheet pan?

answer

Answer this Question

Williams Sonoma · 3 years ago

Hi Koko,

The difference between the exterior dimensions and the interior for sheet pans, is less than 1/8". External dimensions are 18" x 13" x 1" high.
