

ABOUT US

ProCraft is a trusted provider of information technology (IT) and audiovisual (AV) services and products for a broad range of commercial, government, and higher education customers. Founded in 2009, it was born in the live production and recording studio environments to meet the needs of local venues and recording studios. ProCraft has since grown to serve its current client base by offering professional services and products that are uniquely tailored to the demands of the ever-changing audiovisual, information technology, recording, and video production fields.

CONSULTING & DESIGN

We work with clients to create IT and AV systems that are custom-tailored to their functional needs and budget. Leveraging experience and knowledge of the latest technologies available, our designers can help bring the client's vision to life.

INTEGRATION & PRODUCTION

We have resources available to execute any project from start to finish. Our experienced integration and content creation team are trained to the highest safety standards and maintain several key manufacturer certifications.

ENGINEERING

Our team of experienced systems engineers and programmers are dedicated to applying the design intent: integrating proven technologies into a unified plan and system that is reliable, user-friendly, and cost-effective.

SUPPORT

With ample resources in design, engineering, video production, programming, and installation, we are able to support clients in any way they require. ProCraft provides manufacturer support as well as field service to ensure systems maintain their integrity.
