Discourse is the 100% open source discussion platform built for the next decade of the Internet. Use it as a:

- mailing list
- discussion forum
- long-form chat room

To learn more about the philosophy and goals of the project, visit discourse.org.

Development

To get your environment setup, follow the community setup guide for your operating system.

1. If you're on macOS, try the macOS development guide.
2. If you're on Ubuntu, try the Ubuntu development guide.
3. If you're on Windows, try the Windows 10 development guide.

If you're familiar with how Rails works and are comfortable setting up your own environment, you can also try out the Discourse Advanced Developer Guide, which is aimed primarily at Ubuntu and macOS environments.

Before you get started, ensure you have the following minimum versions: Ruby 2.4+, PostgreSQL 10+, Redis 2.6+. If you're having trouble, please see our TROUBLESHOOTING GUIDE first!

Setting up Discourse

If you want to set up a Discourse forum for production use, see our Discourse Install Guide.

If you're looking for business class hosting, see discourse.org/buy.

Requirements

Discourse is built for the next 10 years of the Internet, so our requirements are high:

Browsers	Tablets	Phones
Safari 6.1+	iPad 3+	iOS 8+
Google Chrome 32+	Android 4.3+	Android 4.3+
Internet Explorer 11+
Firefox 27+

Built With

- Ruby on Rails — Our back end API is a Rails app. It responds to requests RESTfully in JSON.
- Ember.js — Our front end is an Ember.js app that communicates with the Rails API.
- PostgreSQL — Our main data store is in Postgres.
- Redis — We use Redis as a cache and for transient data.

Plus lots of Ruby Gems, a complete list of which is at /master/Gemfile.

Contributing

Discourse is 100% free and open source. We encourage and support an active, healthy community that accepts contributions from the public – including you!

Before contributing to Discourse:

1. Please read the complete mission statements on discourse.org. Yes we actually believe this stuff; you should too.
2. Read and sign the Electronic Discourse Forums Contribution License Agreement.
3. Dig into CONTRIBUTING.MD, which covers submitting bugs, requesting new features, preparing your code for a pull request, etc.
4. Always strive to collaborate with mutual respect.
5. Not sure what to work on? We've got some ideas.

We look forward to seeing your pull requests!

Security

We take security very seriously at Discourse; all our code is 100% open source and peer reviewed. Please read our security guide for an overview of security measures in Discourse, or if you wish to report a security issue.

The Discourse Team

The original Discourse code contributors can be found in AUTHORS.MD. For a complete list of the many individuals that contributed to the design and implementation of Discourse, please refer to the official Discourse blog and GitHub's list of contributors.
