

Expanding the BID boundaries will knit together the entire neighborhood, include a broader area for services, and allow us to promote a clear neighborhood identity.

- Our expansion is governed by a set of guiding principles:
- Creation of an environmentally, economically, and socially sustainable 24/7 neighborhood
 - Preservation and enhancement of retail and neighborhood character
 - Mitigation of the physical and psychological impact of regional traffic
 - Unlocking the value of Hudson River Park

What is the BID trying to do?

The BID's current boundaries are in dark grey on the map on the right; the proposed expansion area is in blue and the survey area is in orange. We are looking to expand the boundaries to include areas of the Hudson Square neighborhood that were not included in the original district boundaries. Expanding the BID boundaries will knit together the entire neighborhood, include a broader area for services, and allow us to promote a clear neighborhood identity. Learn more

How does the process work?

The BID expansion process is community-driven and participatory. Preparation for the expansion plan is estimated to take 9-12 months and include community input, to be followed by another 9-12 month formal approval process from the City. Learn more about the expansion process
