What Is The BudLabs App?

In short, it's the growing app you've been waiting for!

Probably the biggest and most important feature of BudLabs that growers have been waiting for is the nutrient calculator.

Much like the official calculator on our website, this makes it easy for you to figure out your needed nutrient calculations for growing. Even better, the app will save your custom calculations for future use.

Plus, BudLabs also contains...

- Complete product descriptions so you know what every Advanced Nutrients product does
- Feeding charts for all Advanced Nutrients products, so you always use the correct amounts in your nutrient solutions
- Personal growing profile, so the app is customized according to your needs and growing experience...

And much, much more.

Believe us, this app is going to make growing bigger, better buds easier than ever. This is just another way we want to help our community.

How BudLabs Was Designed To Help Anyone From Beginner To Grand Master Grower

Because BudLabs was built by growers for growers, it was designed with our community in mind.

No matter your experience level, BudLabs will be a valuable companion in your growing adventures.

The reason why is because it's able to give customized help and advice according to your experience level that helps you achieve healthier crops and maximized yields.

BudLabs will take you through the required steps that best describe your hydroponic garden and give you the correct feeding schedule with the exact proportions of Advanced Nutrients products to utilize, broken down by the weeks of your crop cycle.

In short, nothing is left to chance with BudLabs app in your hand...

That's because BudLabs combines practically everything that a grower needs, starting from the nutrition calculator, to selecting the best hydroponic nutrients by Advanced Nutrients, all the way to helping you find the right products at the closest retailer.

BudLabs Features:

Nutrient Calculator:

- Choose the phase of your plant and the corresponding nutrient base, depending on the type of strain, the growing method/medium, and the vegetative stage of your crop.
- Select your growing experience. The choices vary from beginner to advanced.
- Provide your reservoir size. You can choose between gallons and liters for easier and more accurate information.
- Based on your input, BudLabs will give you the most accurate feeding schedule. The hydroponic nutrient solution will include the required Advanced Nutrients products, separated by type and distributed within the weeks that they need to be used in. The feeding schedule will also include the appropriate combination between the different products, as well as the specific proportions for each one.

Products:

- BudLabs includes information for every Advanced Nutrients product, including its exact purpose, how it should be used, and how it affects the plant. You can access each product description from the "Products" section of the app, as well as directly from your feeding schedule.

Where to buy:

- Locate your nearest stores, where you can buy the required Advanced Nutrients products you need for a successful grow.
- You can contact selected stores by a simple tap, or just allow BudLabs to guide you to their location.

Grower support:

- BudLabs gives you direct contact with the world-famous Advanced Nutrients Grower Support team, where growing experts will be able to answer any and all questions you might have and help you resolve problems you might encounter. (Please Note: Grower Support is 100% secure and completely confidential for you and your growing details).
