No branding and a lie within the description.

Amazon asked for my honest review and here is my review.
What I like about the product.

The ferro rod works decent. The whistle and compass seem to be working fine for now. We will see how long the compass works. Pretty much just like the other exact same ones that are already on amazon.

The tinder wick worked great as well but their was something misleading about it which I will mention later.

What I dont like about the product and why I honestly gave the product 2 Stars.
When the product finally arrived. I was excited to test it out and after pulling it out of the package I saw that their was no branding on the product. Like nothing. Not on the carabineer

It works.

This is nothing special but in a pinch, it will start a fire for you. I always use a lighter to start the first fire on the wick. That way when I use a Ferro rod, it starts much more quickly since the wick is now primed. Don't count on the wick lasting as long as it is advertised though. It burned pretty quickly so you need to have your other tender ready to go so you can blow out the wick. Still...the product does work. So there's that.

Best part is the fire starter

Wish it said cool knight on it. I bought mine and the next week it was listed for a dollar less and still is. One whistle doesn't work very well and one compass takes a shake to get it going. The fire starter is pretty good

One strike lighter

Strikes once to test the magnesium strip. Second strike lit the rope. Works perfectly. Crazy not to buy at this price.

Works as advertised

I purchased this package as I was going on a camping trip and wanted to make my own fire. I did have some issues with the tinder wick but that was just due to inexperience. After some practice and testing, I was able to light the tinder wick successfully.
