ABOUT US

The #yagottawanna Way

It's true that the Bulk family business bloodline goes back over 80 years and includes experience in both operating and maintaining heavy equipment. But the undercurrent that has been consistent throughout all those years, and which Bulk is built on, is the #yagottawanna way.

Leonard Brown, the man who planted the seed for what years later would become Bulk Equipment Corp., found inspiration in the saying "Ya Gotta Wanna." Essentially, it means that nothing in business goes right all the time. You take the good with the bad and you make sure that the one thing that stays consistent throughout is hard work and taking pride in your craft.

You'll find that the #yagottawanna mindset is intrinsic to our core values. To find success, as a business and as an individual, you have to want to do anything necessary to get the job done. These are the values we're committed to hanging our hard hats on each and every day.

Values 03

Commit to family

Our people are our family. We have a greater responsibility to take care of and provide for those closest to us, and we take that very seriously. We show up for them, respect them, and are always willing to lend a hand.

A Look Back

Today, Bulk Equipment Corp. stands as a premier heavy equipment rental and service provider, however our success is not ours alone. We wouldn't be where we're at today without the years of knowledge and lessons those who came before us passed on.
