Our goal is to provide our clients with the most effective training programs to achieve the best possible outcomes as they manage their risks. The key to delivering on this is having a training staff made up of experts in their fields. Our training cadre is drawn from the some of the most operationally experienced organizations in the world. Many with multiple deployments to global hotspots. The Skydas training team is comprised of members from the high threat protection community, the special operations community, federal and state law enforcement, emergency medical personnel, IT security and the legal field. We recognize that the number one asset of any organization is it's people. Knowing that your number one asset is exceptionally trained and equipped to handle any crisis not only empowers the person it absolutely gives a business advantage.
