Question: Will this be safe to use with a key fob for a vehicle \(keyless entry\) or will the magnet cause issues?

★★★★★ Not bad, a nice little light to add to my embarrassingly large flashlight collection

Reviewed in the United States on August 26, 2021

Color: Yellow | Verified Purchase

Works great, the build quality is satisfactory. I haven't burned the whole battery down, mostly because I avoid deep cycling lithium batteries whenever possible.

I generally have more suitable light sources than just about any situation where I can use this, however, I don't have them on my belt all the time. This one clips on a belt loop and it's hardly noticeable due to profile.

This has FOUR operational modes, not three; in order of command, medium, low, and 4hz strobe. MED/LOW are both PWM reduced average current, while you can activate a 'full phase mode' by holding the button for 2-3 seconds. It's not much brighter, and the light gets very hot quickly as you're running it at 100% duty cycle. This shouldn't harm the LED package, but it could easily damage the battery, as there's virtually no thermal management. But that's all fine as this is a small utility light, you just need to understand the tool.

★★★☆☆ Room for a lot of improvement.

Reviewed in the United States on April 30, 2021

The flashlight arrived with a human eyelash stuck behind the lens with no way to remove it. Nice size, but poorly designed. The magnet does not swivel and the clip is smaller than it should be because someone figured a bottle opener was more important than a full-size clip.

★☆☆☆☆ AVOID - Two out of two failed after very light use

Reviewed in the United States on September 14, 2021

Color: Yellow | Verified Purchase

The idea is nice and the product seems robust, except the flimsy little plastic stand in the back. Light is plenty bright, with 3 modes - bright, medium and strobe. The magnet is quite strong.

However, all of this is moot, since the light stops working not long after start using it. It turns on for a second, then it turns off by itself. I bought two lights, both failed the same way. Charging doesn't do anything to fix the problem.

This is not precisely cheap, so I expected better quality control. I'm tired of buying poorly tested equipment where the manufacturer / seller expects you to do the testing for them. On top of it, they will expect you to ship back the defective products, multiplying shipping and transport waste.

Conclusion: If you don't mind spending your time and money testing devices for others, this is the product for you. Otherwise, give it a pass.

★★★★☆ Bright compact rechargeable work light

Reviewed in the United States on August 7, 2021

Color: Yellow | Verified Purchase

It is a bright led lamp without a focused beam making it useful as a work light under the sink, under the hood, or in the attic. The built-in stand, carabiner-style clip, and magnet provide options for positioning it near your work.

I lost the magnet when it fell off while working in the attic, it apparently was not attached with a glue that stayed stuck in a rather hot attic. No residue of the glue was left behind and I never found the magnet in the mounds of blown-in insulation so I can't identify it with any certainty.

The magnet was not a selling point for me since I expect to drop it into my bag along with other random tools and devices, so losing it saved me the effort of removing it. But others may have wanted to use it, so I docked it a point for the magnet falling off unexpectedly.

The battery life is more than sufficient for the random tasks I've needed it for. I don't expect to need it to stay lit for hours, but it is nice to not need to worry about having a work light in my bag that is already

★★★★★ Brightest little light I've ever owned

Reviewed in the United States on November 10, 2021

Color: Yellow | Verified Purchase

This little led light is ridiculously bright almost to bright. I have no doubt it's every bit of 800 lumens however they measure that. It casts a super wide beam so it's more of a mini lamp than a directed beam flashlight. I mean that in a good way. Everything in front of it will be illuminated especially peoples eyes. That's why I said maybe to bright.

I think it's the best form factor I've ever seen in a mini light. Perfect on my harness for doing rigging in a dark convention hall ceiling. The magnet is cool and the little kickstand is nice but probably easy to break. I have a very small tripod that screws into the tripod mount in the bottom of it so I really like that they have that feature. I also added a flat strap that I had to the top that makes it easier to carry when its on my belt loop. I highly recommend this light and will be buying another just so I have a backup. So far battery life is great I havnt had it run out on me at all. I don't Leave it on for super long periods of time so I can't really make any judgment on heat or battery degradation from it. The only con is blinking mode. You can avoid that though by just holding down the button for a longer time it goes into overdrive mode which is ridiculous bright but doesn't scroll through the three modes bright less bright and blinking.
