Question: Where can I get the digital tuning device

Answer:

Honey, you can buy an electronic tuner on Amazon. What's more convenient is that you can download a comprehensive tuner program on your mobile app, such as instuner, and then find the function of C key to adjust this lap harp instrument. We recorded a period of tuning video for your reference. Hope you'll like this ... see more votesQuestion: Do we have to use a pick when playing this zither lap harp ?Answer: No, dear, If you are a skilled player, you certainly don't need to use a paddle, but playing with a paddle can also protect your fingers and nails. This harp gave 2 big size picks, that's very good.

votesQuestion: How many demonstration songs sheet comes with this kit ?Answer: There are about 50 songs. I haven't counted them in detail. Both front and back sides are printed. You can bind them by yourself, but I like this single page because it's more convenient to use.

GORGEOUS sound & good extras for a beginner

Vine Customer Review of Free Product (What's this?)

When I first got this, I did as I usually so with an instrument: I opened it up and tried to tune it so I could start playing.

Then I realized I had no idea what I was doing, and didn't even know how to use this with a tuner.

Thankfully it comes with a handy card insert you slot underneath the strings to guide you along. Grab a tuner and go to work. It's far more challenging to tune than a guitar, so you have to have patience and a decent ear, but the results are SO worth it.

For such an affordable instrument, this thing sounds lovely. Just lovely. Beautiful, resonant notes that ring pleasantly with each pluck. Really distinctive. Loved it. But I didn't know what to play!

Thankfully it comes with a songbook of card inserts to get you started, with beginner songs, then others

Very nice instrument package overall, and fun too!

Vine Customer Review of Free Product (What's this?)

I've been collecting an assortment of instruments for teaching my children in the future. They are ages 2, 4, and 5, and I'm homeschooling them. They have everything from a piano, to guitars, to ukuleles, violins, to a flute, clarinet, drums, and even a lyre harp. My 5 year old has been interested in playing and I've taught him a little on the ukulele, but it's still difficult for him. I saw this and immediately had to get it as I thought it looked like a very beginner friendly instrument... potentially the most beginner friendly instrument (excluding maracas, shaker balls,

Vine Customer Review of Free Product (What's this?)

I have little doubt that this harp can be made to play nice music, but how to get there from here is not exactly clear.

I ordered this for my daughter's 9th birthday which is coming up soon. She plays some songs on a kalimba pretty well, and I figured this was a way to get her into stringed instruments without all the complexity of frets and everything. Cut me some slack, as my daughter is way ahead of me in musical abilities... I'm not going to be doing much teaching in this area!

So. The instrument itself looks good. Not as beautiful as many ukuleles in the same price range (or lower) often are, but it seems competently made. It's just plain, figureless, colorless wood. As long as I'm making comparisons to low-priced ukuleles, I'll mention that this harp did not come with an electronic tuning gadget, as most (if not all) of the $50 ukuleles do.
