THE COVERKING ADVANTAGE

Coverking designs its own fabrics and works with the world's leading textile mills to handle manufacturing. With quality assurance teams dedicated to check every batch of fabric, Coverking ensures the material used in our products meet the most stringent assessments. We check to see if our material is breathable, allowing for the proper release of moisture. We go through a series of stress tests to make sure the materials hold up for everyday conditions. Above all, our covers are checked before reaching our customer to ensure quality.

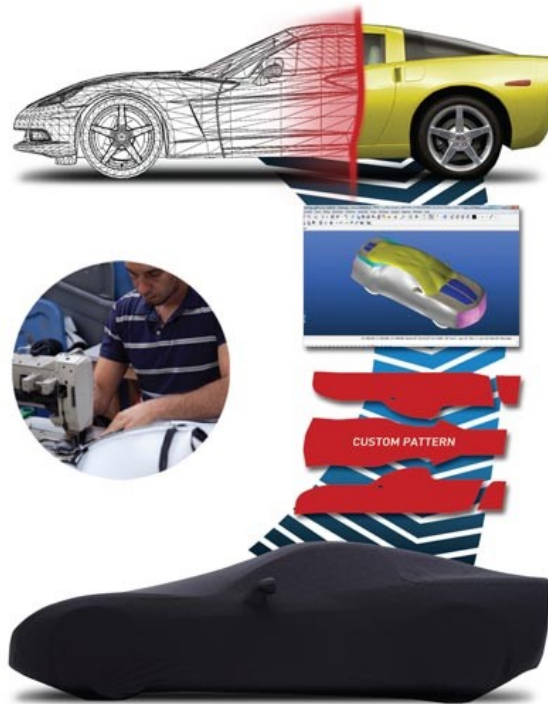

Our covers are designed using as few seams as possible. We believe that extra seams only increase the chance of leakage and failure. By eliminating seams, our covers have the best fit all around without compromising quality. Coverking custom car covers are specially designed and constructed using the latest double needle sewing techniques to ensure fine craftsmanship. The construction of fabric uses a technique to overlap seams in order to maintain durability and avoid leakage. All covers have a backup stitch sewn in for extra support. All of our outdoor custom car covers are sewn with heavy, wax coated thread to ensure water resistance.

TRUE CUSTOM PATTERNS

Like a fine suit, your cover is made to fit the curves and features of your vehicle. Our designers spent time with your model vehicle and used 3D scanners to record every curve, and detail. That data is used to create a world class cover with the fewest seams possible. Custom mirror and antenna pockets are sewn in to allow the cover to rest perfectly on your vehicle's exterior.

Perfecting our craft

We were founded in 1986 by an industrial and electrical engineer who worked in Southern California's aerospace defense industry. Applying engineering and science, Coverking started using the most sophisticated technology in the field to create dash covers. Using computer aided designs (CAD), we started to perfect the process and expand our product line to include car covers, seat covers and other automotive accessories. Till this day, we are still looking for new ways to re-invent the industry in design, style, and function.
