Episode 10. The Real Reason We Use the F Word in Our Retirement Planning Office

In this episode of Blue Collar Wealth presented by Stone House™, join Bob and Kirk as they sit down to share with you the REAL reason we use the F word in our retirement planning office!

No, not that F word!

The F word we're talking about is FLEXIBILITY. And it's one of the most important facets of a retirement income plan that's set up for success.

Watch and listen as Bob and Kirk show you how we work Flexibility into your retirement income plan from Day One and how it helps you throughout the rest of your life.

At Stone House, we prioritize flexibility in your retirement income plan from day one.

When you sit down to develop a retirement income plan with your Stone House advisor, you'll notice that we prioritize flexibility from the get-go. We run the numbers to make sure you have enough buffer in your budget, avoiding that uncomfortable feeling of being financially squeezed a little too tight.

Change is the only constant.

We aim to create a retirement income plan with you that's flexible enough to account for the inevitable unforeseen expenses and changes ahead. So when you decide to fix up your home, help your kids out with a down payment, go through an unexpected health-related event, or any other minor or major financial shift, your financial wellbeing stays intact.
