Manage all of your documentation in real time, with true version control

Venture's built-in Document Depot™ lets you efficiently upload plans, specifications and other important files for real-time document management. You can forget wasted time dragging one document at a time and waiting for agonizingly slow downloads. Easily copy an entire folder tree for an existing project, including document files, in a single step. You can alter the documents any way you need with Venture's automatic version control and instantly send updates to everyone on the project team.

- Move complete file structures with a single click
- Notify your team immediately of any document changes
- Identify immediately the latest version of each document
- Organize your information automatically with smart folders
- Automated version control of all documents uploaded, edited and marked-up
- Search across multiple documents with a single query
- Gain real time insight into project member activities
