Our stories

Our Stories offers a unique insight into the experiences and development of Australia's modern Army. This collection contains rare oral histories, videos and photographs contributed by individuals and the Department of Defence. Personal accounts were recorded in Australia and in countries where operations have been conducted. Through personal recollections and imagery we come to understand the challenges, rewards and sacrifices made by our men and women.

Comments made by interviewees represent their personal experiences and opinions; they are not speaking on behalf of the Australian Army or Department of Defence.

Operations

Come and explore Australia's involvement in some of our recent operations: Cambodia, Somalia, Bougainville, East Timor/Timor-Leste and Afghanistan. Read about Australia's contribution in Setting the Scene, then listen and view

WHERE WE OPERATE

From protecting Australia's borders to helping local communities and participating in United Nation operations, the Australian Army is a force for good in every corner of the globe.

A GLOBAL FORCE

The Australian Army is currently deployed on a range of operations, including humanitarian, disaster relief, peacekeeping and aid provision. They're also on the frontline in natural disasters across our country, as well as represented at international events and ceremonies, such as military tattoos, international parades and war commemoration events. When units aren't on deployment, they'll be busy training, often in large-scale international exercises.

INTERNATIONAL MISSIONS

Protecting our national interests doesn't always happen within our own borders. With Australian Defence Force personnel on operations overseas, the Army has a presence in several countries including Afghanistan and the Solomon Islands. Recently the Army has also had operations in Somalia, East Timor and Iraq.

EXERCISES

The Army's success on operations is founded in excellence in training and preparation. A large part of this is regular exercises that test the Army's ability to respond to various situations. Exercises are happening constantly throughout Australia, and can involve the cooperation of multiple countries. One example of this is Exercise Hamel. This combines Australian Defence Force personnel, together with members of the United States Marine Corps and the New Zealand Defence Force.

OUR WORK AT HOME

Whether it's a cyclone, flood or fire, major national disasters call for a lightning-fast and large-scale response. And when civilian resources are inadequate, unavailable or cannot be mobilised in time, the Army is called in. Over recent years, the Army has been involved in countless disaster relief efforts in the most challenging of conditions. Most recently, soldiers deployed on Operation Queensland Flood Assist II to help in another flood-ravaged community.
