Discover How Skylight Can Boost Your Productivity

“ As a TV distribution and production company, we needed a platform which we could use for invoicing, contacts and the management of rights and license agreements. Skylight offers us an all-in-one platform which syncs these processes in a few simple clicks. Other systems allow you to manage one piece of information in one place and another in a different place with no connection between the two. Skylight is an open platform which is tailored to our needs by ensuring that relevant processes are linked together in one centralised space. – Matt Jaschechnik – Boulder Creek International

“ The way we communicate and distribute information in our organization is quite complex. Skylight is an affordable yet very effective platform which allows us to get access to the most up-to-date information anywhere and anytime. We looked at other systems before moving to Skylight but found they are primarily focused on contact management or they were too expensive. However, our business is structured around projects rather than contacts, and we have some very bespoke requirements, which without a good database, can make managing information very labor-intensive. Skylight is an open platform which adapts to how we work and allows us to centralize relevant information across multiple projects and multiple regions. – Stuart Moore, Maninpo wen-Hydra

“ Skylight has reduced our operational cost by saving valuable time normally spent on administration. – Jamie Kolme – User

“ We process large volumes of proposals for new clients and these proposals and associated information need to be recorded. Skylight helps us keep track of all transactions that taken place associated with each individual proposal and therefore ensures that we don't miss details, tasks or deadlines. – Dawn Bird, Sensei Learning and Performance
