Class Action Recovery

Overview      Class Action Claims Filing Service      Daily Client Reporting

Our research demonstrates that just over 24% of claims that could be filed by entitled parties are left unprocessed and unrecovered, despite opinion that institutional investors are legally obliged to instigate such claims on behalf of their clients.

We offer a complete outsourcing service for securities class action recoveries across the globe, taking care of the entire process for our clients – from initially pinpointing transactions where investors have suffered losses, to completing, submitting and tracking claims and collecting the compensation.

Our class actions software was developed in-house, and is continually enhanced by our technical specialists. It includes case management workflow capability to produce industry-leading claim submissions and bespoke client reports.

Goal offers a free of charge Proof of Concept to ascertain whether a prospective client's portfolio is eligible to participate in class actions. We recently did this for a UK-based asset management firm, cross-checking their assets against our in-house database to identify any historical or current class action cases in which they could have participated – plus those where deadlines had recently passed.

It emerged that 23% of the portfolio's assets were eligible for a class action lawsuit – amounting to recoveries of several million pounds.
