Does not really work that well. Has some fat burning properties like green tea but nothing special, most likely will just be water weight. The company takes down negative reviews regardless of purchase so will be surprised if this review stays up.

☆☆☆☆☆ I don't know what all the hype is about

November 14, 2018

I ordered directly from Elevacity 2 months worth with the pills and did the "dose" combination as they call it. The 1st day I felt good with lots of energy. But it did nothing for as far as boosting my mood, suppressing appetite and all the other claims this stuff has. I took a few days off from taking and started taking it again and again the 1st day I did have more energy but 2nd day and so on nothing to brag about like it stopped working. I also gained about 5 pounds while taking this. Many days by early afternoon I struggled to stay awake at work...like major struggle. several times when I got home from work at 5:30pm I would crash in the recliner zapped of all energy. I drink lots of water normally like I was advised. I just tried the energy patches from the company too and didn't notice a thing as far as extra energy. Congrats to those who have had life changing experiences with this product but for me it is not worth the $$$$$. I really had high hopes about this stuff.

☆☆☆☆☆ Tastes icky & made me nauseous and jittery

December 1, 2018

Verified Purchase

Tastes terrible, left me feeling jittery and nauseous most of the day. I thought maybe it was a fluke, so tried just half a packet the next day & felt exactly same. The "energy" is just from added caffeine, which I definitely don't want. Sorry to report that, for me, its not a magical miracle weight loss and energy potion. If your friends are raving about this stuff on social media, its only because they're trying to make a buck selling MLM product. Anyone want to buy the rest of this bag?

☆☆☆☆☆ Not bad, but not great. Keep your regular morning coffee and have this later.

Ad feedback

The first day I had the coffee I did feel energetic and there were no noticeable effects like jitters or racing pulse. My mood was noticeably better. The second day, I was napping by 1pm. No noticeable effects. No energy either. The taste is not terrible, but it is also not the kind of coffee you charge for upon waking out of bed. In my opinion, it would be better to have an option with no xylitol. Not everyone has sweetener in their coffee. There is a horrible aftertaste as well. I added some half and half and managed to drink most of both cups I've had. I will update the next few weeks as to if this coffee is really worth the hype or not.

UPDATE:

I really tried. Evidently my gag reflex is just too reactive to not-so-great-tasting stuff. It did make me nauseated and the aftertaste is something I cannot get use to. I noticed another user said this is an additive to beverages. This brand may have such thing, but this is instant coffee. The directions say to add to hot or cold water and should you like a "boost" to your coffee you can add a pack. Personally, I'll stick with my regular cup of coffee and leave the weightloss to my diet.

This product works very well for the first month or so as an appetite suppressant. The effects do wear off though so it may require taking breaks to retain effectiveness. It also gives me extreme tremors but I am the only one I know that has had that side effect.

It came, but just the 24 "sticks" in an envelope. There was no information, dosage, or any direction on how we're when you're supposed to take this.
