

Rights to the Larcum Kendall name were purchased by the U-Boat group which is the parent company of L. Kendall, and at least in the United States, the place to get them is Grenon's of Newport watches (by Ray Grenon). An enterprising watch retailer with good taste for more interesting brands, Ray showed me the watches that I unfortunately missed at Baselworld. These are weird, but imminently cool watches produced with really nice quality – and the prices are not totally stupid. These days, new watch makers realize that the boom of getting people to spend oodles of cash on new and untested brands is over. There is still a healthy appetite for fresh, innovative designs, but thankfully the people that make them realize that there aren't limitless budgets to buy them.

Trending

Catch up on the most popular content on aBlogtoWatch right now

GIVEAWAYS

WATCH GIVEAWAY:
Magrette Moana Pacific Professional Titanium

BY ABLGOTOWATCH

JAN 01, 2020 • 592 COMMENTS

FEATURED ARTICLES

Some Predictions On What 2020 Holds For
The Watch Industry

BY ARIEL ADAMS

JAN 01, 2020 • 63 COMMENTS

FEATURED ARTICLES

2010-2019 Retrospective: aBlogtoWatch's Most Memorable Articles Of The Decade

BY BILAL KHAN

DEC 29, 2019 • 62 COMMENTS