Make your Communications Private right now!

Today is the day you start securing your perimeter. Stop sending your sensitive information in open email. DMD will keep your communications safe from prying eyes.

Secure the Perimeter

Are you tired of people forwarding your private messages? Now is the time to secure that leak and keep your communication private. Your messages will stop at their intended targets. Say NO to privacy creep!

Entirely Anonymous

You don't share your email address. All communication is done with pre-shared code identifiers that are retired and recycled periodically.

Totally Encrypted

From the start of your message to its delivery, the contents are always encrypted. The crypto is strong and secure with revolving keys and dual key chain security. We can't see your messages, and nobody but the intended target can see them.

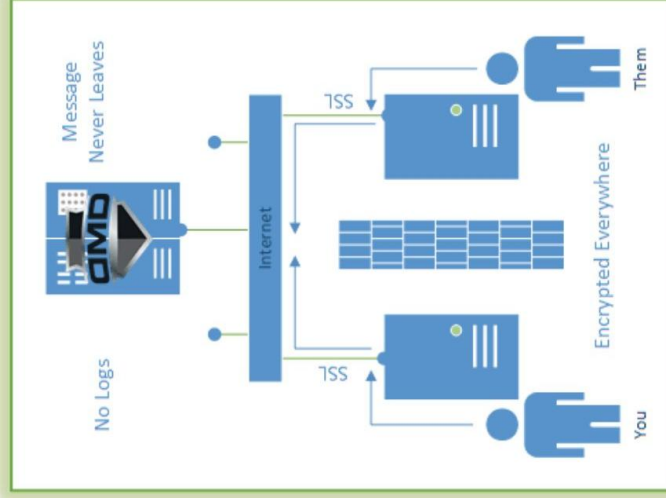

No Open Transfers

The mail message is always secured with crypto and never leaves the server on the open wire.

No Monthly Fees

You pay as you go, paying for entitlements to send messages, or enhance the security options of your account.

End To End Crypto

We are serious about your privacy and security. Our thought is constantly on how we can remove ourselves from your security chain and make your communications entirely private.

SSL and Encryption

Message authoring and editing is done over SSL. Once stored in our server, the message is encrypted using a key management algorithm of your selection. Our systems are designed to revolve keys so that administrators never know how to decode your messages.

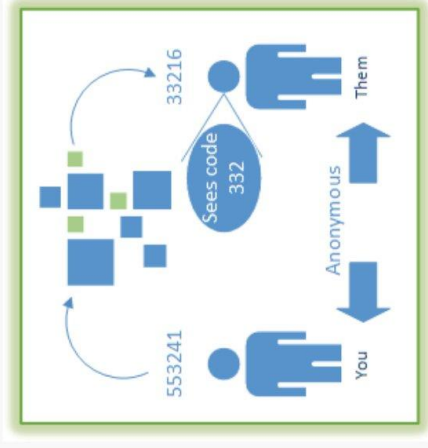

Targeted Message Delivery

Our message delivery is done through anonymous code identifiers. You don't share your email address, your phone number, your name, nothing identifying about you. The counter-party of your communication has to share one of their delivery codes before you can ever send to them.

Never Spam

The nature of this messaging system precludes any spamming of unwanted messages.

Trusted by Thousands

Become one of the many people who have secured their perimeter.

We use DMD to exchange private VPN credentials and new account passwords. Nobody likes using email to share credentials, so why not use the temporary crypt service!

Jacob Anderson

Beyond Ordinary Software Solutions

We used DMD to exchange private financial reports such as tax returns, secure applications, and other financials. The temporary nature of the communication means that we don't have to worry about these documents leaking out into the wild. That's fantastic!

Trevor Bacchus

(Private Wealth Management)

IT work is hard enough every day dealing with penetrations and intruder prevention. With DMD we can exchange exploit detections, secure network topology reports, and other sensitive documents without having to worry about them leaking to the public.

M. Donahoe

(Private Company)

DMD Features

The features that keep your messages private.

Strong Crypto

We use strong cryptography with strong key chain policies to ensure your messages are encrypted in the blind.

No Open Wire

We never send messages over the open wire. Everything communicated in our system is kept in the systems, on our private LAN, or through SSL cryptography.

Cost Effective

This is a premium service with no option for freebies. We keep the cost of the service low because everyone pays to use it. There is no community option that spammers would use to send unsolicited messages or abuse the system.

Pay To Send

Receiving messages does not cost any money. You pay for codes, passwords, and other entitlements to improve your interaction experience.

Attachments

You can opt-in to share attachments with your counter-parties. Those attachments are also controlled and encrypted by the same security as your messages.

Timed or View Limits

Messages and attachments can be retired after so many views, or after a specific date. You control the lifecycle of your messages, and who receives them, and who can view them. There is no forwarding of messages.

Entitlements

Everything costs something.

Medical Marijuana Resources

MarijuanaDoctors.com offers a wide range of medical marijuana resources for both patients and doctors. This is a relatively new subject area for many people, so there are many questions regarding the types of conditions that can be treated using marijuana, how to approach patients who request medicinal pot, what areas of the country allow medical marijuana and many, many others.

These are just a few of the medical marijuana resources we offer:

Medical Marijuana Recommendations

One misconception a lot of people have when it comes to medical marijuana is how they go about getting a "prescription" for weed. The reality is they don't.

What patients get is a certified recommendation from their doctor, which they can then take to a local dispensary in order to obtain the marijuana they need. The topic of recommendations is one of the most important medical cannabis resources we offer — we can show you what to expect during a medical marijuana evaluation and much more.

Catering to the digital demand for online medical marijuana services, MarijuanaDoctors.com is pleased to announce that it's fully-integrated, e-visit patient and physician medical marijuana Telemedicine Portal is now live, giving qualified patients the technological ability to see a medical marijuana doctor online, on-demand and in real-time — instead of in-person.

With the passage of telemedicine legislature in California, Connecticut, Maine, Nevada, New York, and Rhode Island, patients may now access medical care from virtually anywhere — the telemedicine portal allows qualified patients to remotely connect with a qualified and licensed marijuana doctor on-demand, and in real-time, from a secure and trusted online platform.

Designed as a complete medical marijuana solution for doctors recommending (prescribing) medical marijuana in their respective state, the largest nationwide network of marijuana doctors online — in states where medical marijuana is legal — gives network physicians the ability to not only become relevant in the online medical marijuana space, but also cement their digital footprint ultimately allowing them to rise in the relevant search rankings, online.

Marijuana doctors are in a position to cut costs and save time, making their practice more profitable. The telemedicine portal provides physicians with calendaring abilities, a patient verification service, and a vital patient symptom tracker. Telemedicine medical marijuana doctors also have unlimited access to a recommendation generator for each legal medical marijuana state, with the added ability of being able to acquire a digital upload of the patient's drivers license, and digital signature, as well.

"Instead of going through the assembly line at a medical office, marijuana doctors are now able to have a substantial and private discussion with each patient about using medical cannabis," says Dr. Helene Malabed, one of 10 physicians who beta tested the MarijuanaDoctors.com Telemedicine Portal.
