

Discover why so many travelers prefer high-speed train travel to air travel. Enjoy extraordinary comfort, amenities and efficiency as you're whisked from city to city. With operating speeds between 135 – 200 mph, and the benefit of arriving city center, why would anyone travel any other way? High-speed train tickets include reserved seats. Have a rail pass? No Problem! Just get a passholder fare and sit back and relax as the train speeds you to your destination.

Artesia: France – Italy

Serving France and Italy, Artesia's primary destinations are Paris, Lyon, Turin and Milan. During your journey, stroll to the bar car for a beverage and a snack as you watch the scenery through picture windows.

Paris – Milan 6h 40m
 Paris – Torino 5h 30m
 Lyon – Torino 3h 35m

AVE: Spain

Travel in Spain is a breeze with AVE service. AVE takes you from Madrid to the historical Andalusia regions of Cordoba and Seville, and has just opened the much anticipated high-speed line to Barcelona. AVE offers continuing service to Cadiz and Malaga in great comfort.

Madrid – Barcelona 2h 40m
 Madrid – Cordoba 1h 45m
 Madrid – Malaga 2h 40m
 Madrid – Seville 2h 20m

Eurostar: England – France – Belgium

More than a decade ago, Eurostar forever changed the way people traveled between London, Paris and Brussels. Recently Eurostar moved to St. Pancras, its new station in the heart of London. This momentous occasion marked the launch of Great Britain's first high-speed rail line and further reduced travel times between London, Paris and Brussels by 20 minutes.

London – Paris 2hr 15m
 London – Brussels 1hr 51m
 London – Lille 1h 20m

ICE: Germany

Focused primarily in Germany, with service to Switzerland and Austria also available, ICE connects all major cities such as Frankfurt and Hamburg in just under 3.5 hours. With all that it has to offer, no wonder ICE is the backbone of Germany's long distance train system.

Munich – Salzburg 1h 30m
 Berlin – Frankfurt 4h 07m
 Frankfurt – Munich 3h 10m
 Munich – Berlin 5h 38m

Talgo Day: France – Spain

International routes between France and Spain are well served by Talgo Day trains. Travel from the south of France to the Mediterranean destinations of Barcelona, Valencia and Alicante.

Montpellier – Barcelona 4h 15m
 Narbonne – Barcelona 3h 35m
 Perpignan – Barcelona 2h 50m

TGV: France

The TGV network is the cornerstone of the European high-speed rail network connecting France to Brussels, Geneva, Lausanne, Zurich, Torino, Milan, and more. So whether you ride the rails of Lyria (TGV France-Switzerland), the super modern TGV Est into the Champagne region, Switzerland or Germany; or the Geneva-Med line from Switzerland to the south of France, you will be delighted by the speed and comforted by the ease in getting to your destination.

Paris – Avignon 2h 40m
 Paris – Marseille 3h
 Paris – Geneva 3h 29m
 Paris – Reims 45m
 Paris – Strasbourg 2h 17m
 Paris – Basel 3h 20m
 Paris – Frankfurt 3h 50m

Thalys: Belgium

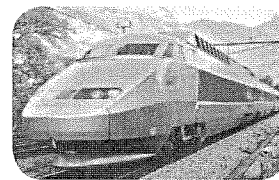

This distinctive red train links Paris to Amsterdam, Brussels and Cologne. There are 18 Thalys trains per day that take you from Paris to Brussels in under 90 minutes. With this kind of service and frequency, your best option is Thalys.

Paris – Brussels 1h 22m
 Amsterdam – Brussels 1h 53m
 Paris – Amsterdam 3h 18m
 Paris – Cologne 3h 14m

Frecciarossa & Frecciargento: Italy

Designed for travelers seeking high standards of comfort and speed, these trains are modern and stylish. Services including onboard catering and access to all major cities complete an authentic Italian travel experience.

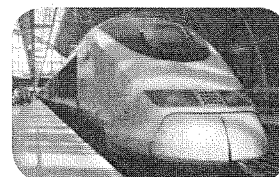

Florence – Milan 1h 45m
 Rome – Florence 1h 30m
 Rome – Venice 3h 15m
 Florence – Venice 1h 51m
 Rome – Bari 3h 59m

Artesia

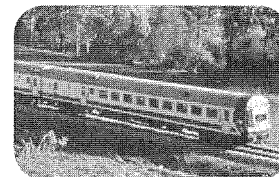

Ave

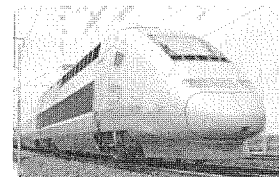

Eurostar

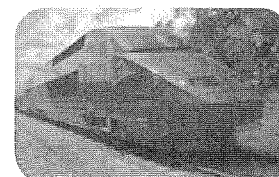

ICE

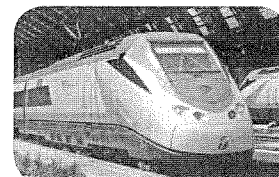

Talgo

TGV

Thalys

Frecciarossa/Frecciargento