

Fisher Clinical Services

Services

Fisher Clinical Services offers manufacturing, packaging technology, and automated solutions that introduce time-saving, seamless transition opportunities throughout your clinical supply chain. From overencapsulation to packaging and ultimately the distribution of investigational products and supplies to investigator sites, our integrated services support every detail of your clinical supply chain seamlessly and cost-effectively.

Working together as early as protocol design, we engineer automated solutions and consolidate non-sequential steps to speed progress and reduce risk throughout development. Our technical capabilities allow us to systematically handle and improve all critical processes in your supply chain. We can help you cut costs by consolidating multiple vendors into fewer strategic alliances, drive profitability by removing non-core services from your portfolio to fund other strategic investment, and grow revenue by transforming fixed costs into variable.
