Harness the Training Power of Digital Media

When you're dealing with a large scale workforce, Hughes Training and Learning services present the ideal way to maximize performance, increase productivity, and stay ahead of the competition. With digital media such as on-demand video and the ability to track a student's participation, you can implement training programs and ensure compliance with corporate mandates—all from a centralized location.

Hughes Training and Learning services make it easy, integrating all the technology, broadband network connectivity, and professional services necessary for a complete, cutting-edge private video training network. And our cost-saving solutions help you manage, deliver, and track individual user training across all your remote sites.

Keep Employees Engaged and Up-to-Speed

- Deliver live and on-demand content for interactive training
- Record and archive training sessions for future access
- Upload content, assign viewing rights, and set training objectives from a convenient central administration system
- Track user activity to confirm and monitor completed viewings and results
- Automatically collect and transmit information for customized report generation
