Outsourcing your relocation program allows you and your employees to focus on your main business while benefitting from Cartus' global experience, reach, and relationships with the best networks available anywhere.

Whether it's large-scale international assignments or ongoing domestic moves, or anything in between, we work as an extension of your business to keep things running smoothly.

Why outsource your corporate relocation program?

- Focus on your core business. Outsourcing non-core competencies will allow you to focus on your core business, eliminating the administrative weight of managing the relocation process.
- Benefit from scalability. Cartus can scale programs up and down with optimal efficiency, responding quickly to your organizational needs without unpredictable costs.
- Manage overhead. When you outsource, there's no need to build internal systems or add overhead, freeing up resources to attend to your core business.
- Generate cost savings. Outsourcing a relocation program can generate cost savings from a variety of sources, including more efficient shipment costs, home marketing and sales, better supplier pricing, and policy recommendations.
- Maintain employee productivity. Your transferring employees receive dedicated relocation assistance from a single point of coordination, minimizing stress and enabling them to remain productive during a move.
- Provide tax and compliance benefits. A relocation program can offer significant tax and compliance advantages, and we provide expertise in policy development and information on tax, legal, and compliance issues as we become aware of them.
- Stay competitive. Offering a global relocation program as a benefit can make your company more attractive to new hire candidates and, by extension, more competitive in the recruiting process.

Global reach: 128 Cartus clients have their relocation programs managed by our teams in multiple global locations.
